I Spy!

This relates to communication and language, specifically their listening and understanding skills. The children will be able to demonstrate understanding directions and listening to their adult.

The children will go round the home with the adult looking for all red items for example, the adults job would be to encourage and give lots of praise. depending on age and ability and to scaffold learning it could be further extended to get the children to then gather the items and look at sizes as well, putting them into 2 groups of big and small.
